All of R&V Works cajun fryer works with the Burner Flue Hovering in the cooking vat, positioned so that the excess breading and/or batter will fall to the bottom of the fryer where the oil is cooler. This prevents the oil from being scorched by the sediments laying directly in the heating zone which will very quickly ruin the quality of your cooking oil. This results in a 70% reduction in oil usage when compared to other deep frying systems. Also the fryer can be removed from the stand making it easier to transport and/or store.
